Mayor Elaine Rudolph

Mayor Rudolph Outlines Goals

This year---1981-- is an exciting time to be Mayor of Sierra Madre in its 100th birthday year. I hope to work with the Centennial Committee to accomplish a noteworthy celebration for our citizens.

I also hope during this year to establish an advisory committee composed of rep committee composed of representatives from each club, organization and interested citizens to bring matters that concern our citizens to my attention.

I would like to work closely with the Chamber of Commerce to promote a stronger business climate.

I am also concerned with taking a hard look at our emergency programs. While Sierra Madre has always responded well in emergencies, I feel it is time to review our set procedures and see if innovations or improvements can be made.

Most of all, I want all citizens of Sierra Madre to remember that we on the Council and I as Mayor encourage the open door policy.

I want to hear your problems and concerns whether on a formal or an informal basis.

Centennial Plans Include Dinner, Dance at Park

Two Sierra Madre groups are contributing money and added activities toward assuring the total success of Sierra Madre's Centennial Weekend July 3-5.

Kiwanis Club will kick off the weekend with a prime rib dinner-dance Friday, July 3 at St. Rita's Church Hall.

The evening starts at 6:30 with dinner served between 7 and 8 p.m. Dancing to the band music of Sierra Madrean Leo Cacciotti will continue until midnight.

Kiwanis President Bill Betts says, "We'd like this occasion to be something Sierra Madre will remember. It should be the beginning of a great weekend of activities."

At a recent meeting the Volunteer Fire Department voted unanimously to donate $300 for a band to play Saturday evening at a dance to be held at the tennis courts at Memorial Park. The tennis courts are undergoing a face-lift---refencing, resurfacing and new lights---for the occasion.

Of course, everyone in town knows about the bus

Clean-Up This Weekend, Rabies Clinic May 21

This Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, are set aside as spring clean-up day in Sierra Madre and all residents are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to clear away all debris and refuse.

Large pull-off bins will be located at the city yards behind 621 East Sierra Madre Blvd. for anyone to use. Nothing will be accepted for disposal after 4 p.m. so residents are urged to get there early.

A special rabies clinic will be held Thursday, May 21, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Sierra Madre Elementary School where all local dog owners may bring their animals for rabies shots and licensing.

Dog license renewal forms will soon be sent to all owners of animals which were licensed during 1980-81.

A valid certificate and proof of altering, if any, must be presented at the time of issuance of the license at City Hall.

Rabies certificates are valid for two years.

An aggressive animal control enforcement program regarding licensing and stray dogs will be initiated July 1 this year. All owners who have not licensed their animals must do so without penalty prior to August 30.

After that date, however, a penalty fee of $7.50 will be added to all delinquent licenses.

Ordinance 986 will increase impound fees as of July 1, also. Costs are as follows: $20 for first impound; $40 for second and $60 for third.

License rates are as follows: spayed or neutered dogs, $5; all other dogs, 4 months or older, $10; senior citizen discount for dogs, 50%; penalty fee after August 30, $7.50.

DO YOU KNOW ANY OF THESE FACES?—Anyone recognizing the faces in this photo should call the Sierra Madre News at 355-3324.

Postponed Egg Hunt Set For Saturday

The Sierra Madre Fire Department's Annual Easter Egg Hunt will be held Saturday---a week late because of last week's rains.

However, the Chamber of Commerce has decided to scrub the Easter Parade compleply this year with everyone throwing his or her efforts toward the July 4 Centennial Celebration Parade.

According to fire department officials, this is the first year in 35 years it was necessary to postpone the annual egg hunt at Memorial Park. It was that long ago that the hunt was postponed because of rain, also.

The hunt will start at 10 a.m. in Sierra Madre Memorial Park at the corner of Hermosa and W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

The hunt is open to all youngsters under the age of 9 years.

Just before the hunt, the firemen will hide 50 golden eggs which the finders can turn in for fully supplied Easter baskets.

The volunteers have purchased 225 dozen chocolate-covered eggs plus 90 dozen

Sleepyheads, Wake Up!

(The News has asked Marjorie Peterson, chairman of the Centennial Committee, to write a guest editorial, and it follows. Ed.)

Wake up, Sierra Madreans!

It's your town's 100th birthday so why don't you show some good old home town spirit and stay home for the celebration?

Plan to have a good old-fashioned 4th of July in town. Save gas, avoid traffic jams and overcrowded resorts.

Let's show the whole country we are proud of our quaint, wonderful little town and give Sierra Madre a bang-up party.

Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a prime rib dinner and dance Friday evening, July 3.

The Historical Society is bringing the old PE Red Car back to town for the three-day celebration.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the parade on July 4.

Civic Club is planning old-fashioned kid games.

The Sierra Madre Fire Department members are supplying a band for a free public dance in our newly-resurfaced tennis courts on Saturday night.

There are dozens of fun things in the planning that need sponsors. We need food booths, game booths and bands for concerts in the park. So let's hear it from the rest of the organizations.

All citizens! Get in the spirit!

Get a bumper sticker for your car. Don't let your car be the only car in town without one!

Get yourself in the mood with a costume for some good old-fashioned pioneer day fun.

Let's have the biggest party we have ever had for our birthday town, Sierra Madre.

PAST 'N PRESENT

John Gregory

Go west, young man.

The advice which Horace Greeley wrote to the nation was the same prescription Richard Henry Dana offered in the privacy of his Boston law office to a 31-year-old sewing machine operator.

The year was 1871, 37 years after Dana sailed to California.

Nathaniel Coburn Carter, who ran a sewing machine retail store in Lowell, Mass., had been impressed with Dana's description in "Two Years Before the Mast" of the favorable effects that California had on health.

Carter had tuberculosis and was told he had about a year to live.

Carter took Dana's advice to move to California ---a difficult decision, but one which had the concurrence of his doctor. Carter would be travelling without his wife and two children and giving up his profitable little business.

Carter had been the first to make an American flag on a sewing machine for the government. He published and distributed to eastern Massachusettes "The Family Favorite," a newsprint advertiser which sang the virtues of the Weed sewing machine in his poetry and verse, carried passages from famous authors and was sprinkled with a bit of Carter's front porch philosophy.

When Carter began his California sojourn in 1871, he had no inkling that he would never return to the cloth and thread again for a living. Nor could he have guessed that 10 years later, he would be founder and developer of a tract called Sierra Madre.

Hearing that San Gabriel Valley land was "dirt cheap" and the weather excellent, Carter drove his buggy one day to what is now the northwest tip of San Marino and bought 17 acres for $2125.

His wife, Annetta, and the two children soon followed. Three other children were to be born in California.

Carter struck a friendship with Collis P. Huntington and became his sales agent in 1872 for the Central Pacific Railroad, promoting excursions from the East Coast to California.

For 25 straight years, Carter made at least one annual trip to New England to fetch as many as 35 passengers---some of whom never returned East. For almost as long, Carter bombarded eastern newspapers with letters and advertisements, praising the sunshine.

"Carter was the first California 'booster' to boost on a big scale," wrote Harold D. Carew in "The History of Pasadena and San Gabriel Valley."

Carter devised an ad which depicted him before and after he was cured of tuberculosis. Frankly, he looked better "before." Carter, six feet tall, arrived in California weighing 134 pounds. Two years later he was up to 200.

He was "a good mixer . . . enthusiastic and sincere in his attitude," writes Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the California State University system and a historian on southern California.

Carter, in New England one summer to promote an excursion, wrote back to Anabout the hot, humid spell in the East. "Some folks say this is like your California weather and I have threatened to knock the next man down that says anything like that."

Carter knew there was more to California than sunshine and selling railroad tickets.

First came fruit. He took grapes, plums, prunes and lemons with him to the East ---up to half a ton at a time--- and sold them at fairs. A Boston newspaper described one such sale:

"A galaxy of delightful ladies were (sic) around Mr. Carter all the time. Nearly all of them wanted to go to California, and Mr. Carter declared if he were only a Brigham Young, he would adopt them all."

Carter learned to sell another commodity: land. According to notarized land title books, Carter purchased:

—140 acres for $2000 from Levi Richardson on Feb. 2, 1881, of what was described only as Township One, North of Range Eleven West, San Bernardino Meridian.

—An adjacent 845.3 acres from Lucky Baldwin on April 25, 1881. This transaction for $25,320, plus 8% interest, created the central and largest tract of what Carter was to call Sierra Madre. Most important, the deal included half interest in the water rights which Baldwin once monopolized in the area.

—109 acres for $543.85 from George Macomber on Jan. 10, 1882.

There stood 1094 acres (not 1103 as some historians claim) of chaparrel and oak trees waiting for something to happen.

Only the cabins of John Richardson and James M. Smith stood on the property at the time of Carter's April 25th purchase.

Carter divided the tract into lots of 10, 20 and 40 acres and laid out streets: Baldwin Avenue, Central Avenue (today called Sierra Madre Blvd.) and Live Oak Avenue (Orange Grove).

By July of 1882, 12 families had purchased lots.

A few years later, L. T. House of the Sierra Vista News reflected on the activity of 1882: "With the goaheadativeness characteristic of the place, everyone lent his best energies to clearing the land, piping water where wanted, planting orchards and vineyards, building residences, etc."

There were hardships.

In July, Miss Francis H. Hawkes, her mother and their chickens moved into an unfinished house, consisting of a floor and parts of the vertical frame. She wrote about her experience.

"We waded through the shavings, blocks and sawdust and built a fire for the evening meal. Coyotes and other animals were peeping Toms the weary night, but our vigilance saved the chickens. We discovered our first gopher snake in the wooden basket. The shock was dreadful."

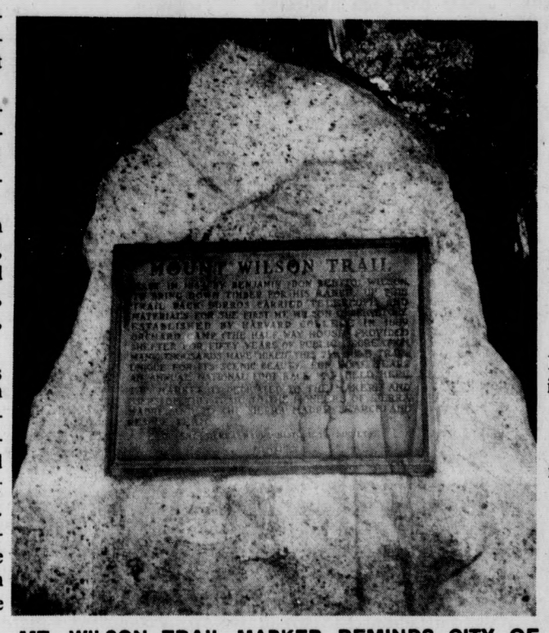

There were also some mistakes in the early years.

Although Carter had plans to create curbs, gutters and sidewalks, he never followed through. Weeds and poor drainage marred Sierra Madre's appearance until after the turn of the century.

But Carter did more than sell land. He constructed the first school house and first hotel. He planted a large number of large ornamental trees and shrubs to form a

PERRET-SCOPE

by Gene Perret

Oh, it's so nice to have Lent over. You all know what Lent is . . . that's 40 days and 40 nights in the penalty box.

Although I suppose some of you don't really know what Lent is. It's so hard to describe to people of another religion. Just picture yourself sitting in the dentist's chair. He grabs the drill, turns it on, and says, "This will only take 40 days."

Lent is a time when Catholics have to renounce pleasure and fast from food and drink and abstain from meat. It lasts 40 days and 40 nights . . . the first week alone.

The rules have been somewhat relaxed in recent years, but I remember how tough they were when I was a kid. I can't remember all the rules exactly but I know that during Lent you said "yes" to your mother and father and "no" to everything else.

The toughest rule was abstinence from meat. That got pretty tough on the last day because there are only 39 known recipes for cereal, fish, and eggs.

Around the 26th day a hamburger became as much a temptation as adultery.

During Lent, the legion of decency used to condemn any movie that had meat in it.

I always used to hate fish and I can remember slipping the waitress a couple of bucks to serve me a piece of beef with scales on it.

Lent was especially tough on me because of my tastes. I'm not fond of cereal, fish, or eggs. I'd be an atheist today if it weren't for pizza pie.

Pizza pie was the perfect loophole. It fulfilled all the requirements of the church and yet it tasted good.

I never gave up pizza pie for Lent, but once in a while, just as a sacrifice, I would order it a la mode.

Being a meat and potatoes man, I suffered more than most during Lent. However, I had my own little way of getting even with God. I joined the church choir. I figured, if I had to eat fish all week, He had to listen to me sing on Sunday.

I hope you all had a Happy Easter.

Rosa with Linda Donatell

City Hall Becomes Birdland

Rosa loves people. So much so that when her family left her to go either to work or school, she started picking away at herself until the tops of her wings were bare.

Rosa is a Mexican Redhead parrot two-and-a-half-years old and she was beautiful when she wasn't lonely. She had all her feathers then.

Of course, her bright green and red feathers are beginning to grow back since she's been around people every day --- at City Hall where her mistress, Linda Donatelli, works.

Every day Linda brings Rosa to work with her and the parrot has become City Hall mascot. She oversees the work, eats seeds and drinks water when she feels like it. And sometimes climbs on fingers and kisses.

There are times when she's been called a legal eagle since she's absorbing the running of the city facility.

At any rate, Rosa, perching in a conspicuous place at City Hall, is a bird of a different feather.

Fire Department Reveals Rise in Calls, Activities

Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Department Chief J. Leonard Hall has issued the annual report for his department for the year 1980. It reflected a substantial increase in activities over the previous year in the number of calls, by both fire and medical, and reflects an increase in the fire loss. The highlight of the report is as follows:

Sierra Madre Fire Department personnel responded to 1166 calls during 1980, an increase of 427 calls over 1979. Of those, 562 calls requested medical aid, an increase of 95 calls over 1979. Service calls doubled in 1980, 237 calls compared to 128 in 1979.

The total fire loss for 1980 was $218,721 as compared to $65,890 in 1979. This increase is due in large to the rise in building costs and to an increase in incidents. The average per capita loss has increased from $5.27 in 1979 to $18.23 in 1980.

Single family dwellings accounted for the highest loss, $187,925, with assembly and office buildings being second highest at $15,050.

Incendiary arson - related fires continued to be the most frequent fire cause, with 44 confirmed incidents in 1980. Negligence is the second highest cause with 23 incidents.

In conclusion, the fire department will continue with the prevention and training programs and attempt to improve community education and awareness. It is hoped that these programs will lead to a lowering tend in both numbers and severity of fires in 1981.

The classification of fire alarms showed: buildings, 44; brush or grass, 11; vehicles, 28; rubbish, 12; tree or pole fires, 12; miscellaneous, 18, for a total of 125 calls.

Other alarms were: Smoke scares, 3; gas leak,3; wind/electric wires down, 118; flooded building, 90; street wash-down/gasoline spill, 0; false alarm, 8; bomb scare, 3; assist other agencies, 0; rescue/first aid, 562; service calls, 237; mutual aid, 17; miscellaneous, 0; total, 1041. The total number of calls, 1166.

The report shows that two fire department personnel were injuried during the year with no injuries to civilians, and no fatalilties.

Fire losses were broken down as follows: Five, over $15,000; 3, $5000 to $15,000; 3, $1000 to $5000; 14, $100 to $1000; 25, under $100; and 75 with no loss. The per capita loss was $18.23.

The report from the Emergency Medical Unit of the department showed a very active year, as is echoed in the following report:

The year 1980 has been one of increased service to the community, both in the number of calls and in the depth of the service. It is highlighted by an increase of more than 20% in the number of calls, with 562, compared to 467 for 1979. This represents 95 more runs.

This was the second complete year of providing full transportation to those patients requiring it, and a sampling of the records show the department is transporting about 80% of the victims to area hospitals. Statistics also show that they are spending approximately 51 minutes on the average call. This includes that period of time from the initial alerting tone until the ambulance has returned to the city.

Probably the most outstanding improvement made during this past year has been the full utilization of the HEAR radio that permits immediate contact with any hospital in the area. Toward the end of 1980 and continuing up to the time of this report an extreme shortage of hospital beds developed and it has been necessary for the hospitals of the EMT unit primary response, Arcadia Methodist and St. Luke's to reroute the EMT unit to another hospital. The HEAR radio has proved invaluable in making contact with the hospital to relay patient conditions, so that proper evaluations can be made before rerouting is practical.

During this period of time the department members have been making increasing use of Huntington Memorial Hospital during hours of the day when the freeway is relatively clear. This trip, under optimum circumstances, involves about an additional three minutes and has been very valuable.

Response time during the past year continues to be two minutes and three seconds on the average, and with the installation of the time clock at the dispatch desk time lapse in each phase of service have become easier to obtain. Record keeping is also much easier.

The department's effort to put funds aside for the eventual replacement of the Medical Unit is making good progress and letters are being sent to those persons who are transported, requesting a $25 donation. The treasurer is placing this in a special fund so that and donations received and designated for this particular fund are locked in for that particular use.

The department is still looking to the year 1983 as the replacement year for the Medical Unit, in order to match county requirements to the private sector.

"With the present confused state of the economy we are even more hesitant to make any prediction as to the ultimate cost," says the chief.

The program, started last year of loaning medical equipment to local residents, is proving very worthwhile and much additional equipment has been donated and is put on loan.

Between the transporting of patients and the free loan of medical equipment, the savings to the local taxpayers is steadfastly moving into the $75,000 category. With the increasing number of calls each year it is obvious that local residents are becoming more aware of the service that is available to them.

This past year showed not only a new high in the total number of calls, but also the number for any one month.

During July 64 calls were answered; in August 63, and in June 60 calls. All three months exceeded the previous all-time high of 59, reached in November of 1979.

Patients were transported to the following facilities: Arcadia Methodist, 328, 72.72%; St. Luke's, 63, 13.96%; Huntington Memorial, 25, 5.5%; Sierra Madre Community, 16, 3.5%; Santa Teresita, 8, 1.7%; and others, 12, 2.62%.

The number of calls by month shows: January, 43; February, 30; March, 47; April, 33; May, 39; June, 60; July, 64; August, 63; September, 43; October, 39; November, 60; and December, 40.

The breakdown on the type of calls shows: heart and breathing, 146; public accidents, 156; home accidents, 63; medical problems, 111; overdoses, 23; poisonings, 5; seizures, 7, and others, 54.

The report also mentioned the acquisition during the year of the new coordinator-evaluator, Ann McCoy, RN MICUN, who provides continuing education and evaluation to the volunteers.

The report concludes with the statement, "this coming year could be one of great progress as the medical unit, an integral part of the Volunteer Fire Department, seeks to prove the best possible service to out community.

Centennial Activities

tour of "Scenic Sites of Yesteryear," sponsored by the Historical Society and scheduled for this Saturday.

Phyllis Chapman, citizen of the year, will narrate incidents, facts and vignettes concerning the beginning of the city of Sierra Madre. Helen Obazawa is navigator.

The bus leaves the recreation center at 12:45 and returns at 4 p.m.

The Centennial Committee, according to Chairman Marjorie Peterson, is still looking for candidates for the king and queen to lead the July 4 parade along with Parade Marshals Rev. and Mrs. Earl Lee whose son, Gary, was a hostage in Iran.

Candidates so far are E. Waldo Ward, Rowena Wingate, Doris Webster and Charles Peterson.

Marjorie Peterson says that many other names have been turned in but in all cases the people were either not born here or have not lived in Sierra Madre long enough to qualify.

Closing date for the Centennial King and Queen names to be turned in to Peterson at 355-9567 is May 15 in time for the announcement to be made at the Historical Society dinner May 20.

The dinner will feature part of Lizzie's Inn menu which included chicken, ravioli, potato salad, cole slaw, baked beans and apple pie.

Anyone wishing to attend the 6:30 p.m. dinner at United Methodist Church May 20 should contact the society at P.O. Box 202, Sierra Madre, after May 1.

Peterson also reminds the community to begin planning an 1880 wardrobe for July 4 Centennial Weekend. Everyone in town should have at least one outfit which reflects the time of the founding of Sierra Madre 100 years ago, she says.

Gordon On the Grow

by Gordon Baker Lloyd

Our florist shop, the Arrangers, had a window full of rabbits . . . and the long-eared one was a delight . . . . so I stood with the kids and did what kids do.

And the next Eyewitness News show on Channel 7 with GL and Elmer Dills is on four popular herbs . . . . but time is short and we don't say anything about their history. One of the herbs is parsley . . . Greeks used it in garland making . . . . during Pliny's time there was not a sauce or salad served without parsley. Another use of parsley was the planting of it over graves to keep them green. Parsley was one of the few herbs grown in England before the Norman invasion. Mothers who used to be asked about where babies came from told the inquisitive ones they came from parsley beds . . . . and during cornwall's time in England they had parsley pie . . . that does it! Speaking of babies, it's better than being found under a cabbage leaf!

The friendliest man in town has got to be the man at the corner of Auburn and Highland during school days . . . We need him down in the town square to wave to our passersby.

I have finally reached the ultimate . . . Jan, our editor, watched me on TV and liked it.

Why are the feet of our Sierra Madre doves brighter pink than those in the valley?

Maybe our crops are better . . . must check with my doctor Pickren on this one.

I want to call attention to the old pepper tree in our "square" . . . the fine pruning by the Ostis . . . . and part of it has to do with the knowhow as the Ostis did it so beautifully.

If you plan to do any food drying, why not read up on how, in its many forms? this includes fruits, vegetables and so on. The best thing I have seen to date is the new "How to dry foods" an HP Book. Beautifully done in color . . . and the history, the how, and even recipes on everything you can dry. Includes sun drying, oven drying or a dryer you can buy or make.

Board's Decision On Adult Classes Held in Abeyance

Consideration by the Sierra Madre Planning Commission of a request to conduct adult classes in a single family residence zone was continued until its next meeting May 21.

At its meeting last Thursday, the commission took up the application of Margaret Whitson of 349 North Lima to conduct the adult classes in the residential area.

The commission also continued its April 16 meeting until April 28 at which time it will hold a joint study session with the City Council, starting at 6:30 p.m.

The commission also acted on a neighbor's complaint of a machine shop being operated as a home occupation in the 400 block of Foothill Avenue. The commission gave the offending party 30 days in which to reduce the noise and to limit the hours of operation.

The City council, at its regular session next Tuesday, is expected to begin the fiscal process for its budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year. The regular session begins at 7:30 p.m. chicken eggs that have been hard-boiled and dyed by the students from CLIMB.

Children are divided into age groups of 1 and 2, 3 to 6, and 7 to 9, so that children are only competing against youngsters of their own age.

A giant Easter bunny will greet the children, arriving at the park approximately 30 minues before the start of the hunt. The rabbit did take care of his other normal Easter project by visiting the patients at the Sierra Madre Hospital and extended care unit to present them with Easter goodies.

This Saturday Fire Chief Leonard Hall will ring the bell that starts the "mad scramble" for the golden eggs. Hall empasizes that the hunt starts promptly at 10 and all latecomers will not be able to participate.

Susan and Gary McNeish and daughter Sandy entertained Gary's family, Mr. and Mrs. Willian Pemberton and Joe and Judy Marcucci with their daughters, Pam, Wendy and Debbie, all from Rancho Cucamonga. WINNERS OF HONORARY SERVICE AWARD AT SIERRA MADRE SCHOOL—Barbara Miller and Gloria Giersbach were given the special Founder's Day Honorary Service Award recently for their many hours spent in volunteer work at Sierra Madre Primary School.

Sierra Madre School Teachers, Parents Honored

Parents who have served many volunteer hours and retiring teachers were honored recently at Sierra Madre School.

Those parents who have donated between 200 and 300 hours to the school so far this year are Barbara Miller, Gloria Giersbach, Christine Winter. Jondra Plant, Sue Sovereign, Noreen Diaz, and Ann Hutchins.

Teachers who were honored on the same occasion which was attended by about 200 persons were Violet Burton and Sheila Crowder. The former teacher had taught art and first grade for 27 years, and Crowder had been a kindergarten teacher there since 1961.

Barbara Miller and Gloria Giersbach received special service awards for work they have achieved for the school during the year. Other parents honored are part of the volunteer program called SERVE.

Gloria Griffiths is in charge of SERVE. Judy Webb with her committee, Coralee Petrie, Isabel Carrera and Noreen Diaz, planned the affair that featured a giant cake the size of a cafeteria table to note Sierra Madre's 100th birthday this year.

Karen Miller's third grade choir sang and Principal Marie Salandra spoke briefly to the gathered group.

There are about 750 children in the school which serves the communities of Sierra Madre and Altadena.

Former Residents Win Tournament

Don Jackson II, credit executive with Sears and Roebuck in the Sacramento area, and his wife, Linda, account supervisor for the state of California, won the "Sacramento tennis doubles championship" recently.

The tournament finals were held at McKinley Park in Sacramento.

Clubs Plan Library Benefit For Sierra Madre Room

One of Sierra Madre's historic houses, Essick House at 550 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., will provide the setting for one of the highlight events of Sierra Madre's Centennial celebration on Sunday, May 3, from 2:30 to 5 p.m., when the Sierra Madre Woman's Club and Civic Club jointly sponsor a "Sierra Madre Artists Exhibition and Silent Auction" to benefit the Sierra Madre Libray's Sierra Madre Room fund.

The art exhibition will feature paintings, sculpture and craftwork by a number of Sierra Madre's noted artists, whose work will be shown throughout the Essick House Gallery.

Various objects d'art, antiques, jewelry and other items donated by patrons of the event will be included in the silent auction, according to Kay Fox of the Woman's Club and Mary Bickel, chairman and co-chairman.

The Essick House will provide an appropriate setting for the Centennial community benefit, having been saved from demolition in 1971 and restored by an extensive community-wide volunteer effort led by the two clubs.

The historic house is listed by the Los Angeles County Musem of Art, among some 1000 structures of historic architectural significance in the Southland, in "Guide to Architecture in Los Angeles and Southern California."

It is also officially designated by the city of Sierra Madre as a "Point of Historic Architectural Interest" and is included in the Sierra Madre Historical Society's annual tour, "Scenic Sites of Yesteryear."

All proceeds from the event will be donated to the fund for the Sierra Madre Room of the Sierra Madre Library which will house books on Californiana and the Sierra Madre Historical Society's collection, making these materials available for study and research for the first time.

Refreshments will be served by members of both clubs who will serve as hostesses for the day.

The two clubs are sponsoring the event as part of their community service as members of Verdugo District, California and General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Admission is $2 and advance tickets are available through members of both clubs. Tickets also may be purchased at the door on the day of the event on an as-available basis.

Further information and ticket reservations may be obtained by calling Kay Fox, 446-3378, or Mary Bickel, 355-0094.

Youth Agencies Consortium park. He donated land for a cemetery and helped incorporate the library. He published the first newspaper, albeit sporadically. He began negotiations to bring the Pacific Electric railway to Sierra Madre.

Carter maintained interests beyond the town. He sold large parcels of land for Lucky Baldwin in north Arcadia, Monrovia and Pomona, and continued his railroad excursions. He became a partner in a small oil company in Redondo Beach.

But his heart and home were in Sierra Madre.

Mrs. Henry Hosmer, a pioneer resident, recalls seeing Carter, not long before his death in 1904, returning from Los Angeles and singing quietly to his horse:

"One wide river to cross.
One wide river to cross.
Gid up along there, old Bell."

Carter had already crossed many many rivers.

Volunteers Needed At Bailey

The second "volunteer work day" is planned for Bailey Canyon Park Saturday, April 25 from 9 until noon.

Much work was completed March 28 but there still remains grass cutting, shrub trimming and preparation of the camping ground as well as quite a bit of planting that is left to complete.

Those wishing further information should call Laurie Cooper at 355-3030.

COTTON FOR SPRINGTIME

BY Joe Delgatto

Spring is here. That means cottons.

Cotton is found in more fabrics than is generally supposed. Many "wool" garments contain varying percentages of cotton admixtures. And then corduroys, piques,moires and gabardines, as well as many other fabrics, are often all or part cotton.

While these fabrics do lend themselves to drycleaning, they must at some time during the life of the garment be "wet cleaned." (Cleaned with enough moisture to remove the soil. Naturally, if the "combination" fabric is one wich is liable to shrinkage or some other harmful effect as a result of moisture, the utmost precaution must be observed.

And then so many cotton fabrics are dyed---both as prints and solid colors---and care and skill must be exercised not to loosen dyes during the cleaning process.

On launderable garments most women have sufficient experience not to have trouble. They know that it's always a good practice to test a printed or dyed fabric---whether cotton or something else---for color fastness by wetting a small piece of a seam and pressing it against white blotter or cloth. If it is not color fast, better let us handle it for you.

But on the dry cleanable items, why not let us recommend to you when it needs to be "wet cleaned." The combination of frequent dry cleaning, with an occasional "wet cleaning" can keep it beautiful much longer.

Finally, it's spring time . . . it's cotton time . . . it's time to BRING THEM TO

Sierra Madre Police Department No Keystone Cops Allowed Here

by Mark Miller

There's a definite tendency within Sierra Madre to underate the hometown cops. I'm sure it's not a malicious attitude, but it does seem to permeate the community.

Since television's earliest origins we've been inundated with an idealized image of law enforcement. Watching "Adam 12," "Police Story" and "The Rookies," we all formed a concept of what police were supposed to do.

They're supposed to go tearing about the city with lights and siren, shooting down robbers and capturing mass - murderers. When they're not busy with major crimes and large-scale disorders they should be cruising the warehouse districts and pumping their scummy informants for information.

Somehow, the Sierra Madre Police fail to live up to that image. We see our police parked by the side of the road with only their radar unit to keep them awake at night.

On a really busy night, they might have to call out the reserve officers to provide traffic control at a fire.

This contemptuous attitude regarding the Sierra Madre Police Department even extends to their fellow professionals. I once heard an instructor at the Police Academy inquire of a reserve class, "Anyone here from the Sierra Madre Security Patrol.

It's hard to respect a police ageny with three patrol cars. It wasn't always like this; we used to have two patrol cars.

Growing up in Sierra Madre I knew all the cops by name. They knew me as well.

Police cars used to be black and white then. They had little black "Mickey Mouse ear" red lights (just like on "Adam 12") and great big mechanical sirens. They drove monstrous Plymouth Satellites with a thunderous tone of exhaust you just had to respect.

Times have changed since then. Detroit is down-sizing and the police are in smaller vehicles. Someone decided that the citizenry find black and white patrol cars too officious, so they're mostly painted white.

Times have changed for law enforcement as well. While standards for patrol cars have been dropping, the standards for police officers in California have grown ever more stringent.

Every one of our Sierra Madre Police officers has met the requirements of the Commission on Police Officer Standards of Training, probably the toughest standards in the United States.

I think we're really selling our police officers short. We have a small-town police department. I think they do a fine job and the statisitics speak for themselves.

Sierra Madre's peak crime year was 1973 and it's been dropping ever since. Last year in neighboring Arcadia, nearly one in every 20 homes was burglarized.

In Sierra Madre, only 112 homes were hit during that same period. It seems like a lot, because we know our neighbors and the burglaries seem closer to home, but our rate is about half of what Arcadia experienced.

While crime is running rampant across our country, things remain relatively quiet in our little town. Sure, we have occasional street crime, but fear does not stalk our streets each night.

The late-night walkers of Sierra Madre have far more to fear from the semi-wild dogs than from any would-be mugger lying in wait.

Sierra Madre Security Patrol? I agree.

What could be more important to any of us than a police department that gives us security? What more effective way could be found of achieving that security than through constant, vigilant patrol of our streets?

I'm sure the name was intended as an insult, but I think of it as a compliment for Sierra Madre's finest.

Next time you see a Sierra Madre patrol, give a friendly wave to the officers. They're members of an elite, dedicated force that possibly represents the best use of tax money this city has ever made.

'New Thought' Principles At Santa Anita

An opportunity to become acquainted with "New Thought" principles and learn how metaphysical interpretations differ from fundmental Bible teachings has been made available to the public in a four-week series of lectures at the Santa Anita Church, 226 W. Colorado Blvd., Arcadia.

"The lecture material was originally planned as a Leadership Training Course for international students who arrived in Arcadia April 14 for the purpose of studying it," said Dr. Margaret Stevens, minister of Santa Anita Church. The course runs April 20 through May 14.

"Because of many requests, however, and the growing interest on the part of rabbis, evangelical ministers and lay people, especially in the light of recent scientific developments, we have decided to open the lectures to the public," Dr. Stevens said.

Interested persons may attend single lectures, a series of lectures or the entire course. Those wishing to attend should call the Santa Anita Church, 446-8206 for information and brochure.

Leoprosy Leader Talks At Bethany Gathering

Rev. Aron Jantzen, the Southern California representative of American Leprosy Missions, will speak at 1 p.m. to the Bethany Missionary Fellowship on April 28.

The Jantzens spent 36 years as missionaries in India. For most of those years, Jantzen was superintendent of the Bethesda Leprosy Hospital in Champa. Under his supervision Bethesda became a great center for leprosy control and rehabilitation.

Leprosy is still a problem today. There may be as many as 15 million with the disease, with only 20% of those receiving treatment. Leprosy is the world's worst crippling disease, with fully 30% of all patients crippled or marred by it. These facts are tragic since there are medicines to control leprosy and almost all crippling can be prevented.

Missionary meeting begins at 9 a.m. with coffee served at that time.

Rev. and Mrs. Aron Jantzen

New and interesting projects will be ready as well as bandage rolling, sewing and hand painting. A catered luncheon is served at noon. Everyone must make reservations and bring his or her own table service.

The church is located at 93 N. Baldwin in Sierra Madre.

Attends Play

The Sisterhood of Temple Shaarei Tikvah will attend the performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance" at the Old Town Music Hall in Monrovia on Saturday, May 2, at 8 p.m. Dessert will be served following the performance. For further information and reservations, please call 573-0450, 358-4383 or 963-3478.
